Acts 13:13-52

Read Acts 13:13-52 together. As you read, what catches your attention, and why? Is there something you find particularly meaningful, surprising, or challenging?

Paul begins by reminding the people of everything God has done throughout Israel's history. What do you notice about God's character and faithfulness in the story Paul tells?

How does Paul connect God's promises and actions throughout history to the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus? What stands out to you about the way he presents the good news?

In verses 38–39, Paul announces forgiveness and justification through Jesus. What do these verses reveal about what Jesus has done for us? Why is this such good news?

When you think about God's faithfulness in your own life, what comes to mind? How have those experiences shaped the way you see and trust Him?

Even after following Jesus for some time, it can be easy to lose sight of the significance of the gospel. What tends to make the good news feel familiar or ordinary to you? What helps you remain aware of God's grace?

Are there areas of your life where you still struggle to live in the freedom and forgiveness Jesus offers? What makes it difficult to fully receive or trust what He has done?

How might remembering and living in the good news of Jesus change the way you approach your relationships, responsibilities, or challenges this week?

Who in your life might need to hear or experience the good news of Jesus? What could it look like to share His hope, grace, or love with them?
